The tasty ceramic sink Deante Lusitano 1000.10 from a well-known Polish sink manufacturer Deante features a spacious bowl and a draining board. Deante has been on the market for over 30 years, representing a guarantee of quality. Deante brand products are called ProEco, which means they use natural materials such as ceramic and Eco packaging.

The Lusitano 1000.10 sink is destined for kitchens in a classic, Provencal or rustic style, in which light colors and wood prevail, with its elegant appearance. The minimalism and smooth white ceramic surface of the sink perfectly harmonize with the glossy surface of stone countertops.

The Deante Lusitano 1000.10 sink model is classified in the category of sinks with an additional smaller basin and drainer. The dimensions of the large basin and its depth (22 cm) provide enough space for maneuvering even when washing larger pots or baking trays. The smaller basin can be used to store smaller dishes or to drain pasta or potatoes. Alternatively, it can be used to rinse fruits or vegetables.

The sink has two holes drilled, see product photo. The hole that will not be used can be sealed with a plug, which is included in the sink accessories, see photo. This plug is inserted into the hole and tightened from below. There is no risk of leakage.

The main advantages of Deante ceramic sinks include their resistance to dirt and resistance to limescale. Due to the non-porous material, no dirt accumulates on the surface, so even after years of use, it remains like new.
